Amnesty International'sory meeting on Human Rights and the Role of the Church has been designed to provide an overview of the recent developments in the field of human rights and the role of the church in promoting and protecting human rights. The event will feature a range of speakers, including leaders of different faiths and human rights activists, who will discuss the challenges and opportunities facing the church in this area.

The meeting will take place on 26 March 2011, and is open to all interested in the intersection between religion and human rights. Attendees will have the opportunity to engage with the speakers and network with others in the field.

In the 1890s, at the time of the Amritsar debate, these two minority communities numbered their initiatives merely in thousands. The Ahmadis subsequently created a very successful world missionary movement, numbering at least half a million by the 1940s. While the Punjab remained the Ahmadi 'homeland', there were various new foci of migration and subsequent conversion in other parts of the world, notably in Africa and Indonesia, but also in Britain and North America."

The total number of Punjabi 'native Christians' was recorded in the census of 1941 as nearly half a million, similar to the estimated global total of Ahmadis only half of whom by then resided in Punjab."
