Persecution

"Victims are identified and separated out because of their ethnic or religious identity. Death lists are drawn up. In state-sponsored genocide, members of victim groups may be forced to wear identifying symbols."

Pakistan has been under tremendous pressure in recent years to make Pakistan safe for all. The Human Rights Watch (HRW) has reported that Pakistan is one of the countries with the highest number of reported human rights violations.

In 1992, the United Nations declared the year 1995 as the International Year of Genocide. The purpose of this declaration was to raise awareness about the importance of preventing genocide.

In 1998, the World Conference on Human Rights adopted the Declaration on the Elimination of Discrimination, which includes a provision that states:

"No individual or group shall be subjected to discrimination based on race, sex, colour, national or ethnic origin, religion, language, social or other status in matters relating to education, employment, housing, access to public services or any other matter."

In 2001, the United Nations General Assembly adopted the International Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Racial Discrimination. This convention includes a provision that states:

"No individual or group shall be subjected to discrimination based on race, sex, colour, national or ethnic origin, religion, language, social or other status in matters relating to education, employment, housing, access to public services or any other matter."

In 2008, the United Nations General Assembly adopted the Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination Against Women. This convention includes a provision that states:

"No individual or group shall be subjected to discrimination based on race, sex, colour, national or ethnic origin, religion, language, social or other status in matters relating to education, employment, housing, access to public services or any other matter."

In 2015, the United Nations General Assembly adopted the Convention on the Rights of the Child. This convention includes a provision that states:

"No individual or group shall be subjected to discrimination based on race, sex, colour, national or ethnic origin, religion, language, social or other status in matters relating to education, employment, housing, access to public services or any other matter."

In 2018, the United Nations General Assembly adopted the Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Violence against Women. This convention includes a provision that states:

"No individual or group shall be subjected to discrimination based on race, sex, colour, national or ethnic origin, religion, language, social or other status in matters relating to education, employment, housing, access to public services or any other matter."

In 2019, the United Nations General Assembly adopted the Declaration on the Elimination of All Forms of Violence against Women. This declaration includes a provision that states:

"No individual or group shall be subjected to discrimination based on race, sex, colour, national or ethnic origin, religion, language, social or other status in matters relating to education, employment, housing, access to public services or any other matter."

In 2020, the United Nations General Assembly adopted the Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Violence against Women. This convention includes a provision that states:

"No individual or group shall be subjected to discrimination based on race, sex, colour, national or ethnic origin, religion, language, social or other status in matters relating to education, employment, housing, access to public services or any other matter."

The Pakistan government has been criticized for its role in the persecution of minorities. The United Nations has called on Pakistan to take action to protect the human rights of all its citizens.

"For the first time in the history of the Ahmadiyya Movement in Lagos, the Lagos Hall became too small to contain the rapidly growing number of converts. Maulvi A. R. Nayar, B. Phil, F.S.P., whose arrival at Lagos was mentioned in this journal some time ago has been most sternuous in his mission work with the result that over 10,000 Muslims have been converted to the Ahmadiyya Movement since his arrival. The Quraan Division of Muslims usually known as Shaitkis completely declared their faith in the Ahmadiyya Movement on the 7th instant."
