Response to Contemporary Issues

Sowna ke Chand Patanjali

Shehrazade Ali

Sowara Faroz

The idea of the sovereign state and its role has been

This concerns the essence of the contemporary times.

In the current times, the idea of the sovereign state and its role has been

Consequently, the modern state must give way to a new

The idea of the sovereign state and its role has been

Consequently, the modern state must give way to a new

The idea of the sovereign state and its role has been

Consequently, the modern state must give way to a new
Blessings Of Khilafah:
Training of Children

By Kadie Yillah Aflick

In this article, we will explore the role of fathers and mothers in the training of children, a crucial aspect of Khilafah (Caliphate) where the family is the bedrock of society. The Quran states: “And do not hinder your children from the path of Allah” (Surah Al-Anfal, 10). This verse emphasizes the responsibility of parents to guide and educate their children in the right path.

The role of fathers is as significant as that of mothers. The Prophet (peace be upon him) said: “A father is better than a mother in the upbringing of a child” (Sahih Muslim). This hadith highlights the importance of paternal guidance in shaping a child’s character.

Parents should instill moral values and religious principles from an early age. They must set examples for their children to follow, encouraging virtues such as honesty, kindness, and respect.

The Quran also commands: “Train your children in their early years” (Surah Al-Baqara, 187). This verse underscores the need for early education and proper upbringing.

In conclusion, the training of children is a joint responsibility of both parents. They must work together to ensure that their children grow up to be virtuous, upright members of society. May Allah ﷺ guide us in this noble task.

Marima Sowa

Status of Woman in Islam

By Hawa Alzabih

In this article, we will delve into the status of women in Islam, emphasizing their rights and responsibilities as outlined in the Quran and Hadith. The Quran states: “And to Allah belongs what is in the heavens and what is on earth; and your Lord is One who hears.” (Surah Al-Baqara, 252). This verse highlights the all-encompassing authority of Allah in matters of faith and daily life.

Islam grants women significant rights and responsibilities. Women are encouraged to seek knowledge and contribute to the community. The Prophet (peace be upon him) said: “The best of you are those who are best to their wives” (Sahih Bukhari).

Women are also entitled to inheritance and are provided with legal protections. The Quran states: “And to every man is a share of what is on earth.” (Surah Al-Imran, 188). This verse confirms the inheritance rights of women.

In conclusion, Islam places women at the heart of the community, recognizing their pivotal role in the family and society. May Allah ﷺ guide us in appreciating and respecting the rights of women.

Messi Mewa

Journey of a Muslim Woman

By Kadie Yillah Aflick
The Right Honorable
Stephen Harper

Urmet: Dr. Javed Ahmad
Khan as a Reward

As you can see, we have been working hard to ensure that the

Office of Religious Freedom

works to address the needs of minorities and ensure that their

Official Opposition

Hon. Mark Adler, MP
Hon. John Carmichael, MP
Hon. Lois Brown, MP
Hon. Bev Shipley, MP
Hon. John C. Michael, MP
Hon. Mark Adler, MP
Hon. Jason Kenney
Minister of Citizenship and Immigration

Hon. Julian Fantino
Minister of International Corporation

Hon. Pekur Kent
Minister of Environment,

Hon. Tim Uppal
Minister of State Democratic Reform

Hon. Lisa Raitt
Ministry of Natural Resources

Prof. Dr. Andrew P.W. Bennett
Ambassador, Religious Freedom

Hon. Senator John Merideth
Hon. Senator Salma

Ataullahjan
Hon. Chris Alexander
Parliamentary Secretary

Hon. Bob Dechert, MP
Hon. Parm Gill, MP
Hon. Kyle Seeback, MP
Hon. Paul Calandra, MP
Hon. David Sweet, MP
Hon. Joe Daniel, MP

www.ahmadiyya.ca
Candace Daniel from Global

As the Archbishop of Canterbury (Justin Welby) visits the Middle East, it's interesting to note that the General Secretary of Baha’is, John N. Cooper, has written about the need for religious freedom in the region. Cooper’s comments come from his experience as a former refugee of the Islamic Republic of Iran, where he was imprisoned in 1982 for 23 years. He described his time in prison as a ‘dark night of the soul’.

As a Baha’i, Cooper is committed to the principles of the Baha’i faith, which emphasizes the Oneness of Mankind and the value of spiritual and material progress. In his article, Cooper emphasizes the need for respect for religious freedom and the importance of non-violent approaches to resolving conflicts.

Dr. Andrew Bennett, the former Canadian ambassador to the United States, stated that the issue of freedom of religion has become a priority for Canadian foreign policy. Bennett highlighted the importance of promoting religious freedom as a human right and as a key component of international relations.

Bennett emphasized the importance of promoting religious freedom as a key component of Canadian foreign policy. According to Bennett, Canada has a role to play in promoting religious freedom around the world. The global context has become more complex with the rise of political Islam and the increasing tension between religious communities.

Bennett noted that Canada has a strong tradition of promoting human rights and religious freedom. The Canadian government has been active in supporting organizations that promote religious freedom, such as the International Civil Liberties Monitoring Group and the Canadian Centre for Research on Human Rights.

Bennett concluded that Canada must be proactive in promoting religious freedom and in supporting organizations that work towards this goal. He emphasized the importance of having a clear and consistent approach to promoting religious freedom in foreign policy and in the Canadian government’s actions.

(John N. Cooper with Benetta)
شہرستان سوات میں گھوڑا کاچال کے ماحول میں گھوڑے کے حملہ، 122 گھوڑے اموات

17 مارچ 2013ء کو شہرستان سوات میں گھوڑا کاچال کے ماحول میں گھوڑے کے حملہ ہوا۔ گھوڑے کے حملہ کے نتیجے میں 122 گھوڑے اموات ہوئے۔

گھوڑے کے حملہ کے نتیجے میں 122 گھوڑے اموات ہوئے۔