Selfless Sacrifices

Hadhrat Mirza Bashiruddin Mahmud Ahmad, Khalifatul-Masih II, radiyallahu ‘anhu

When an effort is made in the cause of the community, it is not necessary that a person’s sacrifice may bear fruit in his lifetime. It is possible that many make sacrifices without seeing any results, and some others may make sacrifices and see the results. The results of national strives should not be seen at individual level. The nations, who learn this lesson, continue seeing celebration after celebration. But the nations who forget this lesson can never succeed in their objectives.

During the early days of the beginning of the war between Germany and England, I read in a paper that the only son of an old lady, who was 80, died in the war. As the lady was of a good stature so the government thought of consoling her. She received a letter from the war minister to see him.

It was decided that the war minister himself honor her and convey the news of the death of her son. The lady came and the war minister thanked her on behalf of the king and said, “You have presented the highest sacrifice for your country but, alas, your son has been killed in the war.”

As the lady emerged after listening to the news, her body was shaking with sorrow that it was difficult for her to stand and her back was giving in. But to show that the death of her son was not a big deal to her, she laughed a fake hysterical laugh, saying, “If my son died so what! He gave his life for the nation and the country.”
Despite that the observer of this incident was a German enemy, he writes that seeing that scene their eyes swelled. Imagine that internally her sorrow was so great that it was difficult for her to keep standing but to show the observers she made hard effort to get support from her stick, and said laughing, “It is not a big deal that my son has died. He died for his country.”

These are the people who are not promised a reward in the hereafter. They do not believe in life after death. Their lives pass telling others that there is no life after death. They make a sacrifice and they are not blessed with a celebration after sacrifice but yet they do not avoid to offer sacrifice and no one from them says, “Tell us, will we get a reward for this sacrifice or not?” They know that the life of the nation is their life.

Do not look at your sacrifices with the point of view whether they will benefit the person making the sacrifice. We should not look at the sacrifices with the point of view how they will benefit us during our lives. Rather we should look at them with the viewpoint that I am a member of Ahmadiyyat so if I do not see the day of celebration, but my nation one day sees that day of celebration, it is like I saw that celebration.

Translated from Sochnai ki Bātain, pp. 38-40.
Our Nasirat took a field trip to visit a Mennonite Church and Genesis Homes, a homeless shelter, in Durham, NC. While at the church we took a tour with Mrs. Cathy, the wife of the church’s priest and learned all about the Mennonites, a Christian sect.

At the church, we didn’t have to take off our shoes or say a special prayer when we entered. We told Mrs. Cathy that we recite a special prayer for entering and leaving the mosque, which I recited with translation. Mrs. Cathy then showed us the place where they meet for prayer and meditation. The room was lined with benches with a wooden pocket on the back, where the Bible and the book of their religious poems are kept. A stage was in the front of the room. Instruments lay to the side and an overhead projector near the stage, which they use for displaying the songs they sing together. Mrs. Cathy said that on Sundays, when people are entering, someone, usually a teenager, plays the flute to indicate to the people to come in and sit down quietly and start meditating. The instruments they play in the church include: guitar, violin, and the piano. Someone also sings spiritual songs. When every one has entered and has been seated, the sermon begins.

The younger children only stay until the opening words of the sermon. They go into the basement of the church where children church is held. They also have a syllabus like Nasirat for different ages in which they learn about the life and teachings of Hadhrat Jesus, peace be upon him. Our Nasirat Secretary and another Aunty asked Mrs. Cathy a lot of questions and also told her the similar things about our religion. When we went down to see the basement, Mrs. Cathy told us a brief history about how her Christian sect came into being. Mennonites are like other Christians, but they don’t like wars and are a peace-loving, community oriented people. After the tour Mrs. Cathy served us some apple juice and cider and we all shared the prayers we recite before eating.

After the tour of the Church, Mrs. Cathy took us to the Homeless Shelter. We got to meet some of the families living there and took some hats we had made for the children. We saw about 4-5 children there and we distributed the hats, which made them very happy. We gave the rest of the hats to the office lady to distribute them among the families who were not there at the time. We even gave one hat to a lady who was admiring the hats very much. The families were impressed by the hats we’d made and asked if we could come and teach them someday. They also asked what other things can we make and if we can teach those as well. We left after a while and told the lady who helped us meet the families how to contact us so we can help in other ways in the future. We all thanked Mrs. Cathy for sharing so much information and for all the help. We all enjoyed the trip and felt very happy to make other children happy. We also gave them a card with prayers and after few days they also sent us the following thank you card:

Dear Nasirat of Ahmadiyyat,
Thank you so much for your wonderful gift of warmth. The children and their parents really like the hats! Thanks for sharing your talents with us—we are all impressed. We look forward to an ongoing relationship with all of you. Hopefully you can come teach us [how to make hats] and share in other ways, too!
Sincerely, Ann Tropiano, on behalf of all of the Families at Genesis Home.
The Magic of Caring

Marium Ahmad, Age 10,
Maryland

This is a story I learned at the Nasirat Camp in Baitur-Rahman Mosque:

There was an old woman who had just come to Mecca. On reaching there she met a man who warned her to watch out for a man named Muhammad (sallallahu ‘alaihi wa sallam). He said that the man had magic and could change her religion. “Oh, thank you for telling me,” the woman said.

One day as the old woman was walking home holding a lot of bags, Muhammad (sallallahu ‘alaihi wa sallam) saw her and asked her if she needed help. “No thank you,” said the woman. But being the caring man that he was the Holy Prophet Muhammad (sallallahu ‘alaihi wa sallam) helped her anyway.

As they walked together, Muhammad (sallallahu ‘alaihi wa sallam) asked the old woman why she worshipped idols and many other questions. When they finally got home the old woman said, “Since you are so nice I’ll tell you a secret. There is a man here his name is Muhammad (sallallahu ‘alaihi wa sallam) and he will change your religion in a snap! So be careful,” she warned.

“Oh, by the way what is your name?” she asked.

The Holy Prophet (sallallahu ‘alaihi wa sallam) said, “Muhammad.”

The woman was so surprised, “Wow,” she said, “That man was right, you do have magic.” Soon after that she became a Muslim.

Here’s a funny story that taught me to think before I eat! My mom told me that once her cousin was really hungry and decided to pick a boti (piece of meat) from the saalan (meat dish) before everybody came to eat. The piece looked very odd. She asked her mother what piece it was and she said it was just any other boti. My mom’s cousin ate and said it was the most delicious thing she’d ever eaten. She liked it very much. The day went on and she asked her mother what it was again. With a grin on her face she said, it was a cow tongue!!!! My aunt learned her lesson to be patient and I know to think before I eat because you never know what it might be.

"Listen my child, say the name of Allah, and eat with your right hand, and eat from that which is in front of you." (Bukhārī)

The Holy Qur‘ān teaches us to invoke the name of God before starting anything good and virtuous. It is necessary to say God’s name before eating. Eating from in front of you makes you dignified and keeps you from spoiling the food which is in excess of requirement.

You should always wash your hands and rinse your mouth before and after a meal. Before starting the meal you should always say: bismillāhi wa ‘alā barakatillāhi, that is, in the name of Allah and with the blessings of Allah.

Some milk mixed with water was brought to the Holy Prophet, peace be upon him. At that time, a desert-dweller was sitting on his right and Hadhrat Abu Bakr was on his left. He drank from it and passed it on to his right, saying, “The one on the right has preference.” So, if there is any kind of food to share, always pass it to the right.

Do not eat so much that you feel that your stomach is about to burst. A few mouthfuls should suffice to keep you on your feet. But if you must eat more, then let him/her fill one third with drink, one-third with food, and keep one-third free for easy breathing.

When you are drinking water, do not drink in one gulp but in two or three breaths. Pronounce the name of Allah when you start drinking and render thanks by uttering his praise when you finish. When the Holy Prophet, peace be upon him, drank, he stopped twice to take a breath. He observed that this method quenches thirst, helps to digest food, and is good for health.

At the end of the meal you should recite this prayer: al-hamdu lillāhi at‘amanā wa saqānā wa ja‘alanā minal-muslimīn, that is, all praise belongs to Allah who provided us with food and drink and enabled us to be Muslims.

As we finish eating we thank God for providing us with material food to meet the physical needs of our body.

First time baking a cake
  How will it turn out?
I hope it’s not very hard to make
  I have the worst ever doubts

What things do we need?
  Sugar, milk, and butter
We’ll make the people drool with greed
So good to make them flutter

Pour in the sugar, pour in the milk
The butter comes later on
Be sure to mix in all the chunks
  To make it smooth as silk
Mix, mix, as hard as you can
  Until you’re filled with pain
Don’t make this celebration
  Go down the drain.

I think the cake is done because
I smell the chocolaty taste
Check by putting a toothpick in Make sure there’s no more paste
Here is the most fun part We’re going to decorate the cakes
With little candies shaped like hearts
And little jelly snakes
Oreos and Fruit Roll-up
  Smarties and Chips Ahoy
I just can’t wait to eat this cake
  Oh boy! oh boy! oh boy!
The delicacy is finally done
  Can’t wait to get my hands on it
This experience sure was fun
  And it turned out to be a hit!

When we are hungry, we eat
Something yummy, a tasty treat.
We aren’t hungry anymore and our tummy is full
Prayer is like that, it makes our soul calm and cool.

Healthy food keeps us strong,
It helps us live a life that’s long.
Prayer does the same, not allowing our soul to become dim.
It brings in Allah’s light, and helps us become a better Muslim.

It also makes our lives long,
and prevents us from doing any wrong.

Food is satisfying and so is Prayer
we may get what we pray for, like a DVD Player.

Without food, we get weak and sick
without Prayer, we become exposed to evil and tricks.

Remember this poem and think of Allah, or Ar-Rashīd,
For he will keep your soul nice and clean.

So the next time you think you shouldn’t say your namaz, think about it one more time when you go to the mosque.

(namaz: salāt, formal prayer)
The Lajna and our great President, Aziza Auntie, were all planning on having a Fun Day. That would basically be a day filled with fun, food, activities, contests, games, and for the older ladies there would be facials plus much more.

During our Nasirat meeting with our sweet and caring teacher, Neha baji, we discussed some ideas for fun day. We finally decided on having a cake baking/decorating contest. Maria and Momina, two younger Nasirat (age group 7-10) were going to bake a strawberry cake. I was going to bake a Butter Pecan cake, and Sidrah baji, the oldest Nasirat, (age group 14-15) was going to bake a chocolate cake. Neha baji told us to write down all of the things we needed to bake the cakes then privately she took us one by one and discussed the list. We couldn’t copy anyone else’s idea and she made sure of that.

Eventually Fun Day came (it was only for the ladies/girls). All of us began to get the mixes together and then we put the cakes in the oven to bake. After baking the cakes—which took 45-50 minutes—we had to wait for them to cool down. While we waited we all played games. Neha baji, Shahma baji, Rafiq auntie, and I played badminton. It took a while but it was lots of fun. Aziza auntie kept the score for us, and Shahma baji and Rafiq auntie won 😎! But we still had fun 😊!

Then we decorated the cakes. First we had a “Looks contest”. Mine won 1st place, Maria and Momina won 2nd place, and Sidrah baji won 3rd place. Although all of our cakes were beautiful they had to choose one person. We never got to do the taste contest, but it’s ok. There’s always next time.

(bājī: sister)
Congratulations to all the Nasirat who participated in the Lajna Matter’s National Essay Competition, “What Thanksgiving Means to Me.” There were quite a few well-written and thoughtful articles, Alhamdullilah. We are happy to print the first place essay by Hamaila Qureshi, a 12 year old from the Sacramento California Jama’at and look forward to reading more of her articles in the future.

Thanksgiving is…

Verdah woke with sunshine pouring in her eyes. She tried to stifle a yawn as her mom told her to get ready for school. She looked around her small room and with a start remembered tomorrow was Thanksgiving. Her teacher had asked her to find something she was thankful for and now as she looked around the room she discovered many things that caught her attention. Her favorite thing was the computer her parents had bought her when she completed her first reading of Holy Qur’ān.

Her mom came to her room again and asked her to offer Fajr prayer. Verdah sluggishly got out of bed and said a short prayer, “alhamdu lillahilladhī ahyāna ba’da mā amātanā wa ilaihinnushūr.” As she said it, it’s translation scrolled through her mind and she realized she was giving thanks to Allah. After wudū she set out the prayer mat and started offering the early Morning Prayer, Fajr. She prayed for her parents, her math test she was going to take that day, and for all her relatives. She also prayed for her best friend, Veronica, who had been sick for the last week. Once she was done with her prayers, she returned her prayer mat to its proper setting. As she was doing so she realized she was most thankful for being an Ahmadi Muslim. If she wasn’t she would never have earned her favorite possessions, in fact, she probably wouldn’t even be in America! Many of us are vaguely aware of all the thanks we give to Allah in a single day but we are all thankful for many things, many of which we are not aware of.

All of us Ahmadis have two things we are thankful for above all the rest, two that are etched in our minds and hearts for as long as we have lived. These two are Islam and Ahmadiyyat. Every day we give thanks to Allah many times but we don’t even realize it. Think about it. How many times a day do you offer Salāt? Five, right? Many times during Salāt we thank Allah if not with our words, with our hearts. He provided us with our foundation, the religion of Islam. He has blessed Ahmadiyyat with many things we did not have in the early days of Ahmadiyyat. Take followers, for instance. In the beginning Ahmadiyyat had but a few followers, now look at our Jama’at! It has over 200 million followers, Māshā’āllāh. Again, before the separation of Pakistan and India, the Jama’at was extremely poor. Now it is flourishing in every corner of the Earth. So you see, Allah has blessed us in many ways and we thank Him with all our heart.

Verdah was having an excellent day. As soon as she arrived at school she spotted Veronica. Verdah practically skipped to Veronica. As soon as Veronica saw Verdah she thrust a picture in her face and said, “Can you believe it, I’m getting two dogs!” Verdah looked and screeched with delight. The picture was of two Siberian Huskies, her favorites. To see her friend this happy filled Verdah with joy. She said a silent prayer of thanks to Allah and thanked Him for making her friend so jubilant. Soon the bell rang and she went to her first teacher.

Way too soon for her liking, Verdah found herself walking to her literature and writing class. This was the class in which she had to give a presentation on what she was thankful for. Verdah was persuaded by many classmates to go first. As she delivered a small speech on how she was thankful to be an Ahmadi Muslim, she realized that giving thanks was not a day that comes once a year but a lifestyle. She also realized that she gave thanks to Allah 32 times in her Salāt alone by saying Sura Fātiha. She realized that many short prayers are also a way of giving thanks. Even the prayer for after sneezing is a way of saying thanks. Many other short prayers like the ones said at the end of a meal, after waking up and the prayer during difficult times. Her class acquired a lot of knowledge in such a short time, as the teacher said.
To me Thanksgiving is to be aware of the fact that God Almighty, Khilafat, my family and our Jama’at are there for us. I am thankful for our Khalifa because he is our spiritual father, guide and a leader, and without him Ahmadiyyat would be lost amongst a network of deception and lies. I am also thankful for my family because they helped me during many hardships and have raised me for the last 12 years. Last but definitely not least, I am thankful for my Jama’at because they were there for me throughout my life and for my Nasirat class where I learned many things and made many friends. To many people, Thanksgiving means something else, but this is what it means to me.

Stare at the black dot in the center, see them move?

Are the horizontal lines parallel or do they slope?
My name is Momin Bajwa. I am 11 years old. I am in the 6th grade. I would like to write about some of my favorite things.

My favorite sports are soccer and football. I play these sports everyday and I am getting better at them. My family supports me and helps me more by teaching me how to play the game better. I also watch sports on television to get a better idea of all the moves.

My favorite soccer teams are Manchester United (England) and Real Madrid (Spain). David Beckham is my favorite soccer player. He used to be number 7 on Manchester United but was recently sold to Real Madrid. Now he is number 23. That is a coincidence because 7 and 23 were my two lucky numbers even before I knew about David Beckham.

My favorite US football teams are the Detroit Lions and the Atlanta Falcons. I like the quarterback, Michael Vick, number 7, who plays for the Atlanta Falcons. I like the quarterback, Joey Harrington, number 2, who plays for the Detroit Lions. I like these players because I think they are very good. Also, Michael Vick is number 7 my lucky number mentioned before, and Joey Harrington is number 2 which is part of 23. All you have to do is add a 3 to the end of the number 2 and you get my other lucky number, 23.

My favorite foods are cheese pizza, chicken, kebabs, candy and ice cream. Whenever I have the chance to eat these foods I do. Even though it is too cold right now to eat ice cream, I think I will still eat some. Everyone in my family likes chicken. But I only like fried chicken with the crispy outside skin.

Last but not least, I will mention my favorite subjects in school. My favorite subject in school is Math. Math is very fun and I am very good at it. By the grace of God, I am doing well in my Math class at school. I have an A on my report card for Math class. I also like gym class or P.E. I like P.E. because it is a time where we have 47 minutes of playing sports and I love to play sports. I am doing well in P.E. class.

A good leader is very kind
A good leader has a brilliant mind
A good leader listens to you
A good leader tells you the right thing to do
A good leader has to earn
Your faith and trust
All these qualities are what a good leader must Have and own
Now I thank you for listening to the poem I have sewn Together with words and time
Thank you for reading this leadership rhyme.
We want to hear from you!

What does your name mean?

Sometimes, though rarely, some names sound the same but are spelled differently and have different meaning. One of such names is Ambar or Anbar. When spelled َمْـۢر (alif+mīm+bā+rā), it is a Hindi or Sanskrit word and means beautiful sky, clouds, or a covering. But when spelled ﺪـۢر (‘ain+nūn+bā+rā), it is an Arabic and a Persian word. It stands for the sweet fragrance ambergris and additionally represents ringlets, curls, or tresses. Both of these names are usually claimed by girls. But there are many names which are commonly given both to boys and girls:

Akhtar (ۡكـٰحۡر): star; omen; luck, fortune.
Farhat (ۡفـٰحۡر): happiness, pleasure, delight, cheerfulness, joy.
Gulzār (ۡمـٰژٰر): rose garden, gardens, garden.
Hishmat: (ۡشـٰمٰت): pomp; modesty, decency, chastity, shyness,
Kausar (ۡکـٰعٰسٰرٰ): abundant, much; a river in Paradise.
Musarrat (ۡمـٰسٰرٰت): joy, delight, happiness, pleasure, cheerfulness.
Naseem (ۡنـٰسٰم): breeze, gentle wind, zephyr.
Riāz (ۡرـٰیٰض): garden, gardens.
Saba (ۡسـٰبٰا): east wind, sirocco, levanter.
Shamīm, Shameem (ۡشـٰمٰیٰم): sweet fragrance, fragrant breeze.
Shaukat (ۡشـٰعٰکٰت): power, might, force, strength, bravery, glory, magnificence.
Tanweer (ۡتـٰنٰوٰئٰرٰ): rays of light; enlightenment, illumination; flowering, blossoming, blooming.

Syed Sajid Ahmad

In the history of the Ahmadiyya Muslim Community, the year 1904, among other important happenings, is known for two lectures that Hadrat Mirza Ghulam Ahmad, the Promised Messiah, ‘alaihissalam, delivered at two large cities of the Punjab, Lahore and Sialkot, before gatherings of thousands of people.

The Promised Messiah, ‘alaihissalam, along with his family and elders of the community, arrived in Lahore by railway train on August 20, 1904. The railway station was overflowing with Hindus, Muslims, and many British who had come there to have a glimpse of the divine who had claimed to be the Messiah and the Mahdi of the age.

During his stay, a lecture was arranged on September 3. The lecture was advertised widely.

Clergy opposed to the Promised Messiah, ‘alaihissalam, tried their best to stop people from going to the lecture. On the way to the lecture, they were shouting at the top of their voices that listening to the lecture will annul their marriages. One mulla (Muslim clergy) was so excited that he had ascended a tall shisham tree to be heard far and wide. He came to be known as the Maulavi Tahli, as shisham is known as tahli in the Punjabi language.

Despite the efforts of the opposing clergy, people rushed to the lecture to occupy the prime seats. The auditorium was filled early with an anxious audience. Famous orator and companion of the Promised Messiah, ‘alaihissalam, Hadrat Maulavi Abdul-Karim Sialkoti, radiyallahu ‘anhu, presented magnificently the preprinted lecture. At the request of the audience, the Promised Messiah, ‘alaihissalam, also addressed the gathering at the end of the lecture.
