The Holy Prophet (saw). The Best Leader

*Sabrina Yasmin Asad, Age 14
Silver Spring, MD*

Looking back on history, I find myself looking at the example of our Holy Prophet Muhammad (peace and blessings of Allah be on him) as the best leader for all of mankind. When one looks at the qualities of a great leader, one can easily attribute those characteristics to the Holy Prophet Muhammad (peace and blessings of Allah be on him). He was the best leader of all times.

Hadrat Muhammad (peace and blessings of Allah be on him) had a great responsibility to lead and teach people how to live peacefully with each other. He had to convey the message of Islam during a time when few wanted to follow the way of life he was preaching. It is evident that there were many things that Muhammad (peace and blessings of Allah be on him) did to ensure that he was the best role model for his people and exemplified the perfect “president” or leader.

Hadrat Muhammad (peace and blessings of Allah be on him) said, “The chief of the people is one who serves them.” This shows that all things that he did were for the good of his people, and that by serving his people, he became their leader. He also enforced unity among his believers. Believers, he said, were like parts of a building, each helping and working to keep one another unified and strong. As a leader, Muhammad (peace and blessings of Allah be on him) knew the importance of staying and living amongst his people. He led them through all sorts of hardships. He stayed with the Hashimite clan, Muslims and non-Muslims, when they were cut off from all sources of food for three years. An example of this was shown in the “Year of Grief.” During this time, his beloved wife Hadrat Khadija and his dear uncle Hadrat Abu Talib passed away; nevertheless, Muhammad (peace and blessings of Allah be on him) continued to stay strong and preached even after these devastating events. This period of time helped to strengthen the unity and brotherhood among the believers.

The Holy Prophet Muhammad (peace and blessings of Allah be on him) was also very forgiving and merciful to those who were against him or had committed a mistake. This impressed many people, convincing them to accept Islam. This virtue of having “love over hatred” showed that he was ready to allow any person to come into the fold of Islam and was willing to lead all people. Even if people were not Muslim or were not willing to accept Islam, the Holy Prophet Muhammad (peace and blessings of Allah be on him) tried to always be on good terms with his neighbors. He always stayed true to all truces made in order to keep peace, and did not want to have any bad relations. However, the other people sometimes did violate the treaty and attacked the Muslims.

The Holy Prophet Muhammad (peace and blessings of Allah be on him) was a man of peace and always preferred peace over war. He only engaged in war out of self-defense, when the lives of his fellow Muslims were at stake. He did not allow for a Muslim to sever relations with another Muslim for more than three days, and said that one should not fight or go to war unless it is lawful. I think that this is definitely something that all leaders of today should keep in mind. People should not get into wars over trivial matters or for greed and selfish purposes. Only if one is attacked, then should one fight back and only if that is the last option and other approaches were tried and they failed. Otherwise, fighting and wars are not necessary, and a peaceful approach is much better. Today, we see that nations are at war with other nations and Muslims are not united and they are not helping their own Muslim brothers. As president of a country or a people, I think it is important to look to those individuals in history who demonstrated peace and tolerance over fighting and seeking vengeance.

Our Holy Prophet Muhammad (peace and blessings of Allah be on him) showed the best example of how a single individual can bring about reformation and peace through peaceful means. If one looks closely at the life of Prophet Muhammad (peace and blessings of Allah be on him), one can see that he was a man of peace and fought for all humans to treat each other with respect and forgiveness, no matter what their status or standing was. Muhammad (peace and blessings of Allah be on him) came to liberate men and women out of bondage and give them hope when there was darkness all around. In such a short period of time, he was able to transform the heart of mankind towards believing in one true God and directing their energy and strength in working together for the betterment of humanity. If more presidents of today would inculcate the qualities that Muhammad (peace and blessings of Allah be on him) exemplified, then this world would be a more peaceful place to live. Hadrat Muhammad (peace and blessings of Allah be on him) truly lived his life as the perfect role model for all of us to follow.

If I were president then life would be different...

I would lead my fellow Muslims to be pious and kind.

The Muslims I lead would never be vain or full of pride for themselves.

They would follow the ten conditions of bait, offer Salat, and read the Holy Quran.

The Muslims would hopefully raise money for charities, sadaqa, and schemes such as Tahrik-i-Jadid and Waqf-i-Jadid, which would provide for everyone who is in need so that everyone has the opportunity to fulfill their dreams.

Insha'Allah, even if I do not really get to be president, I hope for all these to come true. I would also make sure that Muslims do not gamble or do bad deeds.

Sabiha Basit, Age 10

Virginia North

If I were president, I would make school 9:00 AM to 12:00 PM because I think students work hard at school so they should make school short for little and big children.

If I were president, I would be kind and respect other human beings because if you hurt someone's feelings you will feel miserable.

If I were a leader, I would be a Muslim leader, follow the teachings of Islam and believe in Allah, His prophet Muhammad (peace and blessings of Allah be on him), and the Promised Messiah (peace be on him).

If I were president, I would make a law that no one should hurt or kill any Muslim or people of other faith or color.

If I were President, I would protect the rights of every religion.

Leeza Ahmed, Age 7

If I am president, in America, I will stop arguments by telling people to come to an agreement. I will tell people to stop arguing, and not do this ever again. If they say yes, then they would not argue anymore. But, if they say no, then I will have to get Congress to make better laws.

I will also stop people who are getting fat. I will tell them not to eat so much food, and eat more vegetables. I will tell them to eat normal and exercise.

In the world, I will stop the wars and try to bring peace to the world. I will fix hunger, and help people who do not have food. I will give five hundred dollars to everyone to use wisely by having food, water and shelter.

Islam says to be a good teacher, you have to read the Holy Quran and offer Salat. Also, Islam says to help people and your family. Islam says, do not be angry or frustrated. The Holy Prophet Muhammad (peace and blessings of Allah be on him) was the best president, because he believed in God, and he was trying to bring peace to the world, and told the truth.

Mahnoor Butt, Age 8
Virginia North

If I were president, I would make school for ten months and make school end at 2 o'clock. I would make Sunday class on Saturdays. I would say every Tuesday was clean the earth day. I would make no daycares for little kids. I would make March 16th peace day with no music or noise on that day—except for babies crying. I would say, “Be cleaning your litter and your friend’s litter.” I would be a peaceful president.

The Holy Prophet (saw)... the Best "President" of all

Amirah Ahmad, Age 13, Virginia North

That day in August, in the year of 570 C.E., a leader was born. That leader was born in a time of religious and moral decline. In a time such that the Arabs suffered from extreme moral vices like drinking, gambling, and brutal deeds during frequent and endless fights due to tribal rivalries. Certain families had the savage custom of burying their baby girls. Among these people was the Holy Prophet Muhammad (peace and blessings of Allah be on him) born.

The Holy Prophet Muhammad (peace and blessings of Allah be on him) was born a leader. He won great respect for his excellent conduct. Among his fellow Meccans, he was known as As-Siddiq, which means "The Truthful." He always tried to refrain from quarrels of others, and was always ready to end arguments peacefully and fairly. The great Holy Prophet Muhammad (peace and blessings of Allah be on him) was extremely kind and gentle. He was an excellent leader. He was a leader that we should all look up to and follow his path.

The Holy Prophet Muhammad (peace and blessings of Allah be on him) would have been the best president because he was a living model of the Holy Quran. This is Allah's perfect book. It is alive for the past, present, and future.

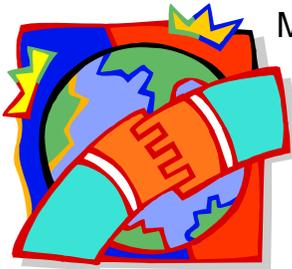

The Holy Prophet Muhammad (peace and blessings of Allah be on him) was so caring and fair. He would free slaves and even take care of his captured enemies.

If I were president, I would care about everybody. I would use all the things that I have learned about being a good Muslim. I would try to always help others. I would also try to always tell the truth, even if I would get in trouble. Also I would encourage people to get along with each other, so that the world might be a little more peaceful. That is what I would do if I were president.

Farah Ahmed, Age 12, Willingboro

If I were president I would make my nation and world a better place by banning guns to make peace. The problem I would fix is war because violence is against Islam. A good leader would promote the message of “love for all, hatred for none.” The Holy Prophet Muhammad (peace and blessings of Allah be on him) was a good leader because he was righteous. He was a good ruler because he was fair when solving problems and ending fights. An example of him being a good problem solver is when the Ka’aba was rebuilt. Tribes got into an argument about who would place the sacred black stone. Prophet Muhammad (peace and blessings of Allah be on him) solved this problem by putting the black stone on a cloth and asking a person from each tribe to hold a corner of the cloth to carry the stone to the Ka’aba. Then the Holy Prophet Muhammad (peace and blessings of Allah be on him) himself placed it where it belonged. This is how the Holy Prophet Muhammad (peace and blessings of Allah be on him) became a great ruler. Let Allah guide us to the right path. Āmeen.

*Zara Masood, Age 11
Willingboro*

If I were President, I would teach more people about Islam. I would also encourage people to offer Salat and read the Holy Quran. I would also teach people how to be good Muslims. I would tell people to help the poor and to pay Zakat, Sadaqa, and Chanda. If I were President, I would help the economy grow. I would also try to give jobless people jobs and homeless people homes. I would encourage children to study hard in school. If I were president, I would care for everyone and would have them care for each other too. That is what I would do if I were President.

Irum Syed, Age 10
Willingboro

Honesty is an important trait in a leader/president because people count on you for many things like fixing problems, keeping our shelters safe, and our country safe. And you have to be very honest so people can trust you for the things they need. The Holy Prophet Muhammad (peace and blessings of Allah be on him) was a very good leader because he was very honest and when people realized he was very honest, people started being more respectful to the Holy Prophet Muhammad (peace and blessings of Allah be on him). This can help the people and the leader in lots of different ways. When you are honest you can feel good about yourself and how you are helping others. Honesty is one very important rule in Islam. In the pledge which we make in every Nasirat class, we say three times ash-ha-du al-la i-la-ha il-lal-la-hu wah-da-hu la sha-ri-ka la-hu wa ash-ha-du an-na Mu-ham-ma-dan ab-du-hu wa ra-su-luh, and then pledge, I solemnly promise that I shall always keep myself ready to serve Islam, my nation, my country, and shall ALWAYS adhere to the truth. If there were any problems with anything, all I would do is to be honest when dealing with people and problems. Hopefully that will prevent wars and keep peace.

Vajeeha Ahmed, Age 7
Virginia North

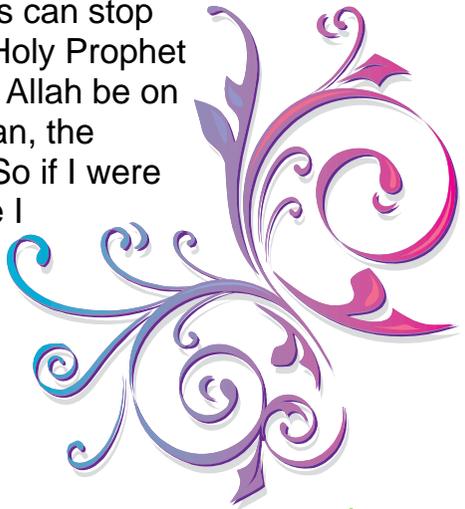

I would save the world and do good things. I would give food and money to the poor people! I would say that fighting is not good.

There are many things that make up a good president. The greatest president was the Holy Prophet Muhammad (peace and blessings of Allah be on him) because he had all these qualities. One quality that stands out the most was that he was truthful. This quality made him dependable and people trusted him. One example was the Treaty of Hudaibiya. The Holy Prophet Muhammad (peace and blessings of Allah be on him) made this treaty with the Meccans. One day after the treaty was signed, a young man came to the Holy Prophet Muhammad (peace and blessings of Allah be on him). He told the Holy Prophet Muhammad (peace and blessings of Allah be on him) that his father beat him because he is Muslim by heart. The Holy Prophet Muhammad (peace and blessings of Allah be on him) sent him back to his father because one of the conditions being written in the treaty was that a Meccan Muslim shall not be taken to Medina. This shows truthfulness, because the Holy Prophet Muhammad (peace and blessings of Allah be on him) did not break the trust of the Meccans. He sent back the young man because he was truthful. Truthfulness can stop many things like war because if the Holy Prophet Muhammad (peace and blessings of Allah be on him) had not sent back the young man, the Meccans would have declared war. So if I were president I would be truthful because I want people to trust me just like the people trusted the Holy Prophet Muhammad (peace and blessings of Allah be on him), so that I could end war and ultimately create peace between nations and the world.

Naila Syed, Age 14
Willingboro

There are many things that I would do if I became president. I would stop the war in Iraq. I would then persuade people to forgive the Muslims and tell them that not all Muslims are terrorists. I would also help the poor people not only in our country but also in others. I would make more shelters for the homeless and other programs to meet their needs. If I want to be a successful president, I have to be caring and respectful because that is what Islam teaches us. We should listen to people's opinions and make decisions based on that. We should also make decisions that make everyone happy. Islam teaches us that we should be caring like the Holy Prophet Muhammad (peace and blessings of Allah be on him). The Holy Prophet Muhammad (peace and blessings of Allah be on him) was caring in many ways. An example is when one of his enemies was tied to ropes. The person was tied so tightly that he was moaning in pain. The Holy Prophet Muhammad (peace and blessings of Allah be on him) told people to loosen the ropes. This shows that the Holy Prophet Muhammad (peace and blessings of Allah be on him) cared about everyone, even his enemies. By caring for others we can make peace and stop wars. We can also resolve problems between our enemies. By being like the Holy Prophet Muhammad (peace and blessings of Allah be on him) I could become a successful President.

Monique Ahmad, Age 15 Potomac

If I were president this is what I would do to make this a better world and nation:

I would stop fights and tell them why we should be in peace. Also, I would organize days so we do not get all mixed up. I would have earth day every six months. Also, if I were president, I would have problems fixed. I would put schools in groups and they would have a problem to solve. The Holy Prophet Muhammad (peace and blessings of Allah be on him) was the best president of all by setting examples not just for Muslims but for other cultures. He did not only set examples but led everybody on the right path. The world leaders should learn from him.

“The Holy Prophet Muhammad (peace and blessings of Allah be on him) was the best president of all by setting examples not just for Muslims but for other cultures.”

Islam is all about morality, spirituality and civil law. Although the Holy Prophet Muhammad (peace and blessings of Allah be on him) had befitting characteristics, he would have never have asked for the position of presidency. He never considered himself the leader, but a servant. He would be the perfect leader because he was God-fearing, trustworthy, and knowledgeable. In his last Hajj sermon, he said that all men are created equal, and that it does not matter what color or background a person has. A perfect leader, according to Islam, is a God fearing, just, caring and understanding person.

If I were president, I would start by making the world understand the true Islam. I would show how a real Muslim is supposed to act and treat others. I would also try to end poverty by creating more jobs that can be taken by people who are unskilled and uneducated. I would create more shelters, give free medicine and start more “help the homeless” organizations. I would also build infrastructure for future development.

Mona Malik, Age 13
Potomac

If I were president, I would end war and try to create world peace. I would get people to help volunteer to make polluted places clean. I would also give over millions of dollars to public school in poor areas. I would create my own private organization for the poor. Islam says that “Everyone of you is a ruler and will be answerable in respect to his subjects.”

This means that everyone should be respected the way you would want to be respected like a ruler. The Holy Prophet Muhammad (peace and blessings of Allah be on him) was the best president of all because he obeyed everything Allah had said. He also respected other people and wanted peace in the world. In my opinion I think that I would make a good president and I would try my best to do good for the people.

If I were president, I would stop all the violence and give the poor homeless people food and shelter. I would help them and not just stand there and look at them. Also, I would help them to find jobs so they can buy food and homes for themselves and their children. I would also make sure that they find a place in an orphanage or find some volunteers to help by keeping some homeless people in their homes for a while.

The Holy Prophet Muhammad (peace and blessings of Allah be on him) was the best president of all because he taught us the right way to act when he saw a poor or hungry person in the street. He taught us to take care of him in any way that we can. If I were president, I would follow the teachings of the Holy Prophet Muhammad (peace and blessings of Allah be on him) to be the best president.

If I were president, I would make sure that people do not litter. One issue that I do not like is seeing people litter. The Holy Prophet Muhammad (peace and blessings of Allah be on him) has said, "Cleanliness is a part of faith." As Muslims we have to set the best example and follow the teachings of Islam because Allah has told us how to be good Muslims. He has told us that we should be trustworthy.

The Holy Prophet Muhammad (peace and blessings of Allah be on him) was the best President because he did everything which Allah told him to do. If I were the president, I would politely ask people to stop smoking because smoking is bad for health. I do not like seeing people smoke.

I would also help the poor by paying Zakat. The Holy Prophet Muhammad (peace and blessings of Allah be on him) was always ready to help those who did not have much. He used to give a lot of charity. If we were able to help the poor then there would not be so many crimes. I would make sure that everyone had food to eat and a place to live. I would also make sure that children had clothes and that they were able to go to school.

The most important thing if I were president is that I would always listen to Allah and do the things He has asked us to do.

*Shamyla Malik,
Potomac*

If I were president, I would try to make the world better by trying to stop global warming and pollution. But it would be hard to be the president because people are following the president everywhere, and I would not like that. I would also have to make big decisions, and there would be a lot of pressure on me. Also all the problems in the world would be hard to fix and for people to accept them. Islam's view is clear from the Hadith which states that a leader should act as a servant to his people. This means that instead of being a bossy leader, you should try to listen to what the people are saying and try to help them. This is what the Holy Prophet Muhammad (peace and blessings of Allah be on him) would do. The Holy Prophet Muhammad (peace and blessings of Allah be on him) would be an excellent "president" because he always treated everyone equally and was very nice. Most people would listen to him and obey him. He also had an excellent way of finding a solution for problems. He would help so many people with their problems.

WOW! If I were President, I think, I would be honored to lead my nation. Now that Obama is President, he has opened the doors of opportunities and new hopes to the American people. If I were President, I would be blessed to follow the perfect steps of our beloved Holy Prophet Muhammad (peace and blessings of Allah be on him). He is the leader not only of the world but, also of the prophets too. He was the perfect image of all the good qualities any leader could or should have. So, what qualities make up a great leader???

Qualities like Humility, Modesty, Kindness, Respectfulness, Justice, and Honesty were shown throughout the life of our beloved Holy Prophet Muhammad (peace and blessings of Allah be on him). Also you need dedication like he dedicated his whole life for the cause of his people. He, unlike the present politicians, kept his promises with his people and enforced justice more than any scale can ever measure. What would our world become with the leader who followed all the qualities of our beloved Holy Prophet Muhammad (peace and blessings of Allah be on him)? It would be perfect with peace and harmony.
